Foreword

"Ursa Magna '61" will try to represent the cross-currents of life at Tri-Valley Central School.

The glimpses of the past included in this yearbook are silent memorials to the part played by the community in the history of our nation.

We hope these efforts will please you.

Dedication

Dear Mrs. Adams,

As a small token of esteem, we have dedicated our yearbook, "Ursa Magna '61" to you. We feel that we are joined by the very many students who have been in your care over the past twenty-six years, in wishing you a continued career of devoted service to children.

From the many, through a few, we say, "May God bless you in all your days."

The Seniors

Principal's Message

There have been hundreds of books written on the theme of how to become successful in life. In each of these books, one cannot find any ONE magic formula for securing success. If you cull the words, the paragraphs and the chapters of any of these books, you come to one conclusion: The basic ingredient for success is WORK. Those of our past graduates, who have been considered as successful in life, are those who applied themselves diligently, to the very best of their ability, to their studies and, later on, to their work - who have tried steadily to improve themselves in every possible way. They have been respecters of work, realizing there is no development without effort, and effort means WORK.

In one respect, this may sound discouraging to those about to enter upon adult life. Have all the prizes been won? Is it any use to try? Fear not. Life never runs out of opportunities; it only runs out of persons to recognize and accept them. At this very moment, some determined unknown is rising "from rags to riches." The voices that will be recognized and revered tomorrow are now struggling to be heard. A saint is being canonized by his or her deeds, though not yet known to the world.

The successful person looks forward to a challenging career, and accomplishing what he sets out to do, and then sticking with it until it is completed. He learns to cut his cloth to suit his purse, to live within his income. He sticks to the job until he has it mastered, no matter what discouragements arise in the course of going ahead. There are certain traits common to all men who make a success of work. They try to do the job a little better than seems necessary, and they do not count hours, but rather accomplishments. It is this type of person who eventually gains the attention of the employer for promotion.

Be not content, Mr. or Miss Senior, just to "get by"---but seek to bring out resources within yourself that can be improved and developed by effort, work and devotion. Regardless of the occupation you will pursue, you can make a name for yourself IF you are not content merely to do "just a day's work." Success does not come that easily. It is that EXTRA effort, EXTRA work and EXTRA determination that comprises success, and reaps the joy of achievement.

As our parting words to the Class of '61, may we offer the wisdom of this ancient proverb: "When you get to the end of your rope, tie a knot in it and hold on!" God bless you in every moment of your future!

Sincerely,

W. E. Ross

Activities are an integral part of life at Tri-Valley. The foregoing pictures tell only a part of the story.

Student Council, under the guidance of Mr. Telfer, is a unifying force in student government, the planning of social and fund-raising events, and general supervision of non-classroom functions.

The Library and Audio-Visual Clubs gain actual work experience as student assistants to Mr. O'Donnell, our school librarian.

The Chorus and Band groups under the direction of Mr. Matz and Mr. Visscher, have sung and played to large audiences at home, in Monticello, and Middletown. Individual performers have appeared in Rochester, and most recently our tenor soloist, Craig Ross, sang with the All-Eastern Chorus in Washington, D. C.

Science clubs led by Mr. Davis and Mr. Cerato have been working throughout the year on individual projects.

The Math Club, headed by Mrs. Horton has built its own analog computer.

The Future Farmers of America, with the advice of Mr. Strangeway, has continued its active program including a trip to Kansas City for the annual F.F.A. convention.

Mr. Murray's Shop Club has been busy constructing miniature racers and learning shop practice as well.

The school nurse, Miss Alia, has directed the Home Nursing Club in a course of Red Cross training.

Future Homemakers of America and The Chef's Club, with the help of Miss White, complete the activity picture.

Note

Due to the large size of some elementary classes in relation to the space available on their pages, we have added this directory. Names and pictures are in corresponding order. If there are errors or omissions, we are indeed sorry.
